

Lesson 5

Today in Class

Today we had our last lesson with Mr. Beethoven. We heard some "moonlight" music that Mr. Beethoven wrote for the piano and we discovered that music makes pictures for our ears! Some music makes us want to get up and dance but when we close our eyes the "moonlight" music made us feel calm and relaxed.

Today we also reviewed rhythms. We made up some funny ones! Then we made new songs combining all the things we've learned so far.

This Week at Home

- Have fun with your last lesson with Mr. Beethoven. Ask your parents to listen to some of the "moonlight" music with their eyes closed. How does it make them feel? Do they feel like getting up and dancing? Does it make them feel calm and quiet?
- When you hear music this week (on the radio or CD player, or even in a store) close your eyes and let the music make pictures in your mind. Do you hear dancing music? Do you hear sad music? Do you hear happy music? What kinds of music do you hear?
- Don't forget to visit Miss Melody.
- Spend some time in the Games Room. What happens in the princess story this week? "Rescue Mission" and "Catch the Note" are getting more difficult. We have to get faster to keep up!
